HA-1563

Gover-Garono Barn
Noble's Mill Rd.
Darlington, Md. 21034

This frame and stone bank barn and corn crib, originally belonging to the same farm as the Gover-Curry House (HA-338), was probably built in the third quarter of the 19th century when Gerard and Cassandra Gover owned the farm. In 1891 the farm, part of the tracts "New Stead", "Smiths Mill", "Henley's Enlargement", and "Bachelors Good Luck", was purchased by William S. Noble, who owned Noble's grist mill at that time. The barn is a particularly good example of a mid-19th century bank barn and the whimsy of the ornamental eaves and gable bargeboard relates the building stylistically to other buildings constructed for the Govers, particularly the Miller's House (HA-337).

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This 2-story frame and stone bank barn and frame corn crib are located on the south-west side of Nobles Mill Road, north of the intersection with East Nobles Mill road.

The corn crib, located between the road and the barn, has a gable roof with an east-west ridge line and is set on stone posts. The sills of the structure appear to be hewn, while the other structural members are sawn.

The barn, 5 bays wide and 3 bays deep and oriented on the same axis as the corn crib, is banked on the south side, where there is one story above grade; there are 2 stories above grade on the north side. Set on a rubblestone foundation with massive quoins, the structure measures approximately 50'3" by 62" and has board-and-batten siding and exposed decoratively carved eaves. The gables are ornamented with a simple stick design supported on carved brackets. A louvered, hip-roofed ventilator is located in the center of the ridgeline. All window openings are louvered.

The south side has a large central entrance flanked by 2 windows on each side. The north side has a large central opening flanked by Dutch doors in the lower story and, in the upper story, 2 openings with one-leaf, vertical board shutters in the center bays flanked on each side by 2 louvered openings.

The west end has 3 windows with vertical board shutters in the ground story, 2 louvered openings in the upper story, and 2 in the gable. The east end is similar with the exception of a door in the center bay of the ground story.

On the interior, the upper level contains 2 hay mows and has a standard pegged frame with straight-sawn members. The lower level contains the stalls along the ends and has a hewn summer beam.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

This frame and stone bank barn and corn crib, originally belonging to the same farm as the Gover-Curry House (HA-338), was probably built in the third quarter of the 19th century when Gerard and Cassandra Gover owned the farm. After the Govers defaulted on their mortgage in 1875, Mary and Robert Wilson owned the farm which also had a sawmill on it, until 1891, and then William S. Noble, who owned the grist mill known as Noble's Mill, purchased the farm. The farm comprises parts of the tracts "New Stead", "Smith's Mill", "Henley's Enlargement:", and "Bachelors Good Luck".

The barn and corn crib are both of fairly typical construction. The barn in particular is a good example of a mid-19th. century bank barn, and the whimsy of the ornamental eaves and gable bargeboard relates the structure stylistically to other structures in the immediate vicinity, especially the Noble's Mill Miller's House (HA-337).
